

May 1 – 3, 2018

The ANR Foundation's 11th Clearing the Air: An Institute for Policy Advocacy Series is a bi-annual retreat workshop attracting a select group of tobacco control and public health experts from the local, state, national, and tribal levels. Our 10th Clearing the Air included 160 participants from 28 states and the District of Columbia. The last two Clearing the Air Institutes reached full capacity with a waitlist. In 2018, we're bringing the Institute to the Midwest. Clearing the Air is an opportunity to showcase your organization and help support the smokefree movement.

Event Purpose

Clearing the Air Institute is the core convening for smokefree and tobacco free experts and advocates – fostering and equipping a grassroots network across the country. Much smokefree policy progress and innovation in the U.S. can be traced back to this conference. It is a unique opportunity that gives participants key skill training, community leadership development, cutting edge examples, information exchange, and resources for addressing secondhand smoke and dramatically reducing cancer, heart disease, and other preventable illnesses at a population wide level.

Your generous contribution will help us expand smokefree and tobacco-free environments across the country securing critical resources and enabling key participants working on closing the gap in smokefree protections to attend. At the last Institute, we provided 40 people with scholarships to the conference - thanks to generous sponsors including: Louisiana Public Health Institute, American Cancer Society – Cancer Action Network, American Heart Association, Tobacco-Related Disease Research Program, Campaign for Tobacco-Free Kids, C-Change, Trinity Health, and Truth Initiative.
